AUTHOR INFORMATION SHEET

WHAT WE'RE LOOKING FOR

Authors with First-Class Programs!

Adventure International is looking for two types of programmers: authors who have written First Class Programs and authors with First Class Programming Skills. Each program that we accept for publication will be converted to five other microcomputer systems. Therefore, if you're short on ideas but long on programming skills, we may have a project for you. Just send us an example of your work that amply demonstrates your programming prowess.

At the present time Adventure International is soliciting new product development for the Commodore 64, Atari, Apple, TRS-80 Color Computer, IBM PC, CP/M and Coleco. Please be aware that ninety percent of our published programs are written in Assembler language. We are always looking for programmers who have mastered 3-D and animation. If you possess these types of special programming skills, we have a place for you !

HOW TO SUBMIT YOUR PROGRAM

Send your program to us in a sturdy box or in a manila envelope with cardboard inserts to ensure that your cassette or disk will not be bent, mangled, or lost en route. Be sure to include complete documentation and RETURN POSTAGE. (All programs received without return postage, will automatically be destroyed after a period of 60 days.) Keep a backup copy of the program you send in case the package gets zapped on the way. Mark on the package exterior in large, legible letters: MAGNETIC MEDIA --DO NOT X-RAY! Ship the package by whichever carrier you prefer. If both tape and disk versions are available, we prefer reviewing the disk version.

PROGRAM TYPES SOLICITED

Although Adventure International is interested in any truly outstanding program, our primary areas of interest are as follows: Arcade Action, Home Education, Adventures, Business, Statistics, Strategic Simulations, Utility, Data Base Management, and Fantasy.

ROYALTIES AND AUTHOR BENEFITS

- * Adventure International pays royalties based on contract negotiated with you. Generally, this runs 10 percent of net.
 - * Adventure International will provide authors with hardware for program development at 10 percent over our wholesale costs.
 - * Your software will be available to you at a 50 percent discount.
 - * Adventure International will provide all authors with complementary copies of their own software upon publication.
 - * Adventure International authors will always be provided with personal service, prompt action on all requests, and a minimum of two-week evaluation period on new submissions.
- All published game software will be copy-protected.
- * Free copies of our new releases will be provided to our authors, upon request. Requests are limited to the system or systems which the author owns.
